Leaders Make Lives Easier – by Simply Tapping the Rudders | September At C-Level

I always find it interesting. No matter how difficult leading others can be, those really good at it seem to handle things effortlessly.

Now maybe they're just putting on a good show, though my experience says they really do make it appear easy. Or at least “simple.”

This month's articles speak to both improving the lives of those we lead, while demonstrating how simple a successful leader's real job can be.

month's AMA.

As always, let us know if we can help in any way – we're here for you. If you're wondering how specifically we can help, take a look here:

On to this month's At C-Level:

Executive & Leadership Team Coaching

- Communicate with Certainty & Clarity
When good communication is a priority, crucial conversations become more frequent and every benefit from a better understanding of each other.
- Make Better Decisions with Confidence
With exposure to third-party insights, executives can anticipate and see their blind spots and make good decisions with more perspective.
- Find Greater Organizational Impact
Investing in executive team growth will prime your organization for growth through better engagement and operational excellence.

Operational Excellence in Leadership

When executives don't play well as a team, the privilege of leadership can feel more like a burden. Having nowhere to go for support can result in:

BLIND SPOTS
MISUNDERSTANDINGS
SUBOPTIMAL DECISION MAKING
ORGANIZATIONAL RESISTANCE

These build walls between executives and create a harmful ripple effect on your organization.

-- Turning the wheel or tapping the rudder

D. Kevin Berchelmann

I have interesting clients.

Not “interesting” as in some Sigmund Freud shrink, scratching his chin and saying “Hmmm, interesting,” as we lie on the couch droning on and on about the deeply-rooted events of our drama-filled childhood... more like “interesting” as opposed to dull, routine and boring.

One such client...

I Have a Great Job! ... said almost no one ever.

Kevin D. Ross

A really short read for some of you today: Everyone who has a great job, raise your hand.

Okay, the three of you with your hands up can go back to checking your email. Everyone else should keep reading.

If you're not in a great job, how about those of you with a good job?

That's more of you but still disappointingly few. Now, bonus points if you can articulate what makes it a good job.

ASK ME ANYTHING

Ask me anything. You know, the ubiquitous twitter-inspired "AMA."

No, seriously, ask me anything. Actually, it's ask US anything, since there are actually two Kevins here, but there's no AUA initialism, so we're stuck in the

We get questions all the time. All the time. So, we thought we would start sharing some of the answers here, as a way of learning for us all.

So, Ask Me Anything. Simply reply to this email and ask away. We'll select one for the month, and we'll put the official response here in the newsletter. As an added bennie for asking it, we'll also send you a video response that goes a bit deeper into the issue. Gratis. Our gift for your efforts.
